Ben was a boy who was secondary 1. He wanted to join a football team, so he went to play football more, but there were no football field near his home, so he only practices in the park. When he was practising, in a sudden, he tripped on the rock and fell over. He got a broken arm and some bruises. It was very painful.

After that, a boy passed by and asked Ben, 'Are you fine? Let's go to the hospital.' The boy was so kind, he gave Ben water and helped Ben to go to the hospital. He accompanied Ben to wait for the doctor in the waiting room and started to talk...

The boy asked Ben, 'What were you doing when you hurt?' Ben answered, 'I was running when I fell over by myself. I want to join the football team at school, so I need to practise more.' The boy said, 'I think I can teach you how to play football well! What do you think?' Ben was very glad. One week later, the boy taught Ben to play football. He was professional! Ben was so thankful for his help.

On the selective trial, Ben was very confident. Suddenly, Ben was shocked because the boy who taught Ben how to play football was the football team leader! Ben was very happy to see him and thankful for his help again,

Finally, Ben did very well and joined the football team. Ben and the boy became friends also.
